

Only 30% of Hearing Professionals Prioritize Your Hearing Needs

At the heart of exceptional hearing care is a commitment to best practices. This ensures you receive the highest-quality hearing experience, placing your needs front and center. It's an essential part of what it means to be HearingLoss.com-certified.

One of the best practices we follow is real-ear measurement. This technique fine-tunes your hearing aid programming to perfectly match the shape of your unique ear canal and acoustic needs. Studies show that 80% of patients prefer the results they get with real-ear measurement — but only 30% of hearing professionals, like ours, use it consistently.

You deserve a provider who truly prioritizes your hearing journey. A partner dedicated to your lifelong success.

That's the HearingLoss.com-certified difference.

Unlock Your Hearing Potential

About one person in every five has hearing loss, and many wait years before getting help.

Choosing the right provider is crucial for experiencing the full benefits that come from using hearing devices.

Research shows that your success with hearing treatment is significantly influenced by factors such as your awareness of hearing loss, satisfaction with your devices, the level of support you receive, and the expertise of your provider in adjustment and calibration.

That's why our commitment to best practices and patient care make us the ideal hearing care partner for you.

Our Commitment to Best Practices and Patient Care

Verified Best Practices

Adhering to best practices ensures precise diagnostics; treatments rooted in objective measures; and seamless, supportive care.

Per the American Academy of Audiology, two tools — real-ear measurement and electroacoustic analysis — are best practices ensuring accurate diagnosis and effective treatment. Count on both in our practice.

Empowered Hearing Health

We believe hearing health care experiences should be better, so you and your loved ones get to make informed decisions.

Test results are in clear, plain language so you fully understand your hearing health. We encourage open discussion — your loved ones can ask us questions and learn how to support you. We also stay at the forefront of hearing care advancements to ensure you always receive the most up-to-date care.

A Personalized Plan

Your evidence-backed treatment plan is tailored to your unique needs, now and at every stage of your hearing journey.

We work with you on a custom solution to maximize your hearing potential. Our dedication to your hearing health means you enjoy routine device maintenance and annual hearing exams to monitor your hearing health.

You deserve a customized hearing treatment plan that combines the highest quality of care and unparalleled expertise and support — that's the HearingLoss.com-certified difference.
